

As part of a CCG initiative for all practices in the area to be on the same clinical (computer) system, South Street Surgery will be changing from Emis Web to SystmOne on 19th April 2016.

We will work closely with our health authority project manager to minimise service disruption, but patients should be aware that some disruption is inevitable.

Online access will be turned off two weeks before the change over and patients will need to apply for and for confidentiality reasons, personally collect new passwords from our Surgery at Bishops Park once the changeover is complete.

We will share further information towards the end of March. As well as displaying information on our website, we will keep patients informed by displaying notices in both of our surgeries and in Patient Newsletters.
